TWO FATALITIES AT LEWISTOWN!

The Victims of the Accidents Were Literally Ground to Pieces.

SAD ENDING OF BIG DAY

Lawrence Lauver of Ryde Station Was One of the Unfortunate Persons.

WALTER HOMER THE OTHER.

Lewistown, June 23—Two terrible railroad fatilities occurred here during Thursday night in which two young men were horribly ground to pieces within a short distance of each other, Lawrence Lauver, of Ryde station, aged 25 years, was struck by a fast passenger train at 2.20 Friday morning about 200 yards west of Lewistown Junction and literally ground into bits His remains were picked up a half a mile east of where the accident occurred. Lauver was employed as pitman on the Pennsylvania railroad at Ryde and is well known among middle division trainmen The dead man had been parading with the lodge members of Juniata Arie F. O. E. in the dedication day parade and was waiting for the morning train to take him home when he met his death. His attention being attracted in another direction he stepped directly in front of the express train. His brother, W. E. Lauver, a middle division freight conductor, of Harrisburg, coming east at the time, viewed the remains at the company's hospital and by looking at his watch, clothing and papers was horrified to discover it was his brother. He has two brothers in Altoona, James and Stewart Lauver, employed in the Juniata shops. The body was prepared for burial and sent to his home.

The coroner had hardly gathered the remains of the one victim up when another gruesome discovery was made it was the body of a youth lying on the sand tracks almost in the centre of the town completely ground in half. The discovery was made by the junction train crew call boy who stumbled over the body. The boy was Walter Horner, a 16 year-old youth who was at the depot to see the soldier company off on St. Louis express and boarded a freight train to return home. It is presumed he was jolted off and fell between the cars.

DEATH OF JOHN E. FLECK.

Was One of the Originators of the Dairy Business in Philipsburg.

John E. Fleck, the well known dairyman, who has been in failing health for the past three years with diabetes, was at last obliged to yield to the ravages of this subtle disease, his death occurring at 9:40 Wednesday morning, June 20 at his home in Decatur township, Clearfield county, about a mile and a half from Philipsburg.

The deceased was a native of Philipsburg, and was born March 19, 1857, making his age 49 years and 3 months. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Fleck, died some years ago. He has resided in and near Philipsburg nearly all his life, and for about 22 years has been engaged in the dairy business. In fact he may virtually be said to have been one of the originators of the dairy business in Philipsburg. Two or three others had attempted to carry on the business a year or two before, but did not seem to succeed From the very start Mr. Fleck met with success, and continued in the business up until his death, although of late has been obliged to give directions from his sick room.

In 1880 he was married to Miss Susie Milliner, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Milliner, now residing in Wallaceton. As a result of this union thirteen children were born to them, ten of whom survive, together with his wife. He also leaves two brothers and two sisters, viz: Howard M., Altoona; Charley, living in New Jersey; Mrs. James Schofield, Bellefonte; and Mrs. Mary Rapshur, of Philadelphia.

THE MATTERN REUNION.

Interesting Exercises Held at the Gathering at Warriorsmark.

Funk's grove at Warriorsmark was at its best on Thursday, and no more pleasant spot could have been chosen for the reunion of the Mattern family. The weather was all that could be desired and everybody in the throng seemed to be having a pleasant day. There was a goodly crowd in the morning, but it was about doubled by the arrival of the afternoon, and when photographer J. H. Holtzinger came to take a photograph of the big family at the close of the exercises his camera was taxed to the utmost to grasp the entire group.

The exercises were held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. There was a prettily decorated platform, and seats were provided, which were fully occupied by the fully fed Matterns, for dinner had been a feature and not a mere incident. The president of the family association was unavoidably delayed in arriving at Warriorsmark, so Prof. Lewis W. Mattern, of Washington, D. C., presided at the meeting. All joined heartily in singing "America," after which Rev. W. L. Armstrong, pastor of the Warriorsmark Methodist church, led in prayer, and 'Blest be the Tie that Binds," was sung with fervor.

The address of welcome by Prof. Lewis W. Mattern was a strong, eloquent presentation of the sturdy characteristics of the Mattern family. He set forth how notably this family represent love of home and love of country, and also how devoutly it had lived up to a high Christian standard, and had wrought good in the world. The large chorus, under the leadership of Isaiah Devore, then rendered a beautiful anthem.

In responding to the address of welcome, Rev. A. Lawrence Miller, pastor of the Fifth avenue Methodist church o Altoona, drew upon ancient history and his own imagination in cleverly presenting early episodes in Mattern history, which if not strictly true, were abundantly entertaining. One of his parishioners, Fletcher Meek, an aged Altoonian, then sang a solo.

The recitation with which Mrs. C. W. Montgomery, of Hollidaysburg, next entertained the assembly took so well that she was recalled, and the talented lady responded election in dialect. After another anthem by the chorus, Claude Jones, of Tyrone, read the memorial to members of the family deceased since the last reunion. Dr. W. H. Flenner, of Tyrone, secretary of the association, read a number of letters from relatives in this country and in Europe. George G. Hutchinson next gave a few remarks in happy vein.

At this point Rev. John A. Mattern, of Clearfield, president of the association, arrived, and the meeting was given into his charge. His remarks were the closing ones of the formal exercises.

Most of the throng remained in the delightful grove for supper, and the pleasures of social reunion and general greeting were continued into the evening. The officers who have served in the several capacities hitherto, were re-elected. The third Mattern reunion is likely to be followed by more similar gatherings in the years to come.

Miss Helen M. Ertley.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Ertley, of Windber, formerly of this place, are mourning the death of their beloved daughter, Helen Margaret, which occurred on Tuesday of last week, the result of pulmonary trouble. The deceased, who would have completed her eighteenth year had she lived until September next, will be remembered by many of our people as a lovely young christian girl, whose death will be deeply lamented. Besides the parents, three brothers and one sister, Holmes, Roy, Robert and Nellie, survive. The remains were taken to Jacksonville, near Bellefonte, the old home of the parents, for burial.—Philipsburg Journal.

A Candidate for the Presidency of State College.

Dr. George Emory Fellows of Maine University, is being considered as a candidate to succeed Dr. George W. Atherton as president of the Pennsylvania State College. Dr. Fellows was in Bellefonte last week and on Friday, in company with Gen. Beaver and Col. John A. Woodward visited the College. When seen that evening Gen. Beaver admitted that his selection was being considered but stated that as yet it was a long was a long way from being settled. Dr. Fellows is a man of perhaps forty-five years of age with a rather winning and magnetic manner.

CONSTABULARY FIRE ON CROWD

They Were Riding Past a Big Assemblage Which Greeted Them with Prolonged Yells

A BOY WAS INJURED.

Mayor of Allentown Asks Trolley Company President and Labor Leader to Meet Him

VERY FEW CARS RUNNING

Allentown, Pa., June 27.—A platoon of the state constabulary which is on duty in this city in connection with the street car strike, fired into a crowd Tuesday night and injured a boy. The police were riding past Fourth and Hamilton streets when they were greeted with yells by a large crowd congregated at that point. Two of the state policemen arrested two men and started with them for the jail, a half block away. A crowd of two thousand persons attracted by the shooting quickly gathered and stones were thrown at the state police. The helmet of F. Markrantz, a state policeman, was smashed with a brick. In the melee that followed one of the men arrested escaped. The police, being hard pressed by the crowd that was following them turned and fired a shot into the air and then shot low. A bullet struck Harry R. Winkle, a thirteen year old boy in the leg and he was taken to the hospital. Chief of police Bower and several city policemen arrived at the jail as the state police brought in their remaining prisoner, and two troopers who were accused of doing the shooting were locked up. Charges will be preferred against them for shooting.

The crowd was highly incensed at the action of the state police. There is a deep prejudice against the presence here on the state constabulary.

A significant feature of the trolley strike situation Tuesday night is that Mayor Schaefler has requested Colonel Harry C. Trexler, president of the Lehigh Valley Transit company, and Orlando C. Miller, secretary of the local union of the street car employes and a discharged motorman, to meet him in conference at his office. The strikers look to this as the entering wedge to an adjustment of the difficulties, as the company officials had hitherto refused to treat with the men except individually.

Very few cars are running, the company not having enough men to keep up their usual service. Guards of state constabulary are on each car and others on horseback are patrolling points where danger is anticipated.

The state police arrested three men for calling motormen names. One of them was arrested in South Bethlehem, Northampton county and as the troopers were sworn in only as deputies of Lehigh county there are rumors that a test of their authority will be made in this case

The strikers report three accessions to their ranks this afternoon one motorman and two shop hands.

The troopers who were arrested were later released on bail. The disorders in the streets continued until nearly midnight when Chief of Police Bower requested Lieut. Smith to withdraw the state police and, when this was done the crowd dispersed.

Boy Mysteriously Shot.

Alfred Brumbach, 11 years old of Danville, was badly wounded Thursday evening, and mystery surrounds the affair. He was shot in the arms, leg and face.

The boy was employed by Frank Ebner, a farmer, and returning from work in the fields, went to the barn to throw down hay for the horses, and then sat on a pile of boards to rest. He heard the report of a gun so close that it frightened him, and in a moment realized that he had been shot and called for help.

Mr. Ebner made a search for the person who did the shooting less than two minutes after the boy heard the report of the gun, but could find no one.

AN IMPORTANT DEAL.

Academy Trustees Buy Beezer and Wagner Properties.

One of the most important and interesting deals consummated in Bellefonte for many a day was closed last evening between the Academy Trustees and Philip Beezer, whereby the property owned by the latter and adjacent to the Academy campus was purchased by the Trustees and hereafter will be a part of the Academy property. About six weeks ago a special committee was appointed by the Trustees to wait upon Mr. Wagner and formally accept the proposition for the sale of his property which he had made to the Trustees some months ago. It is the purpose of the Academy management to secure possession of these properties during the coming weeks, remove the fences, barns and all out buildings, beautify the new grounds in a fitting manner to form an extension of front campus for the Academy, and fit up the Wagner and Beezer houses as dormitories to accommodate the many new boys who are expected to enter next September. The younger element of the boarding department will be housed in these rooms under the supervision of special teachers, thus introducing the Lawrenceville Master system so successful in the "Green Foundation School." This movement is a great big stride in the progress of the Academy, meaning for this institution the enlarged front campus which it needs and deserves, a large increase in the business brought to the town through this school and given a merited encouragement to the management who are very successfully bringing about a rapid growth and development in the school, both in point of scholarship and in the increasing attendance of boys from distant towns and cities.

Surely every Bellefonter will hail this deal with delight and congratulate heartily both those who inspired the transaction and those who were the parties to its consummation. Bellefonte is an ideal location for a secondary school and is to be congratulated upon having within its confines an institution as historic, as famous, as successful and as progressive as the Academy.

A Frightful Runaway Accident.

Tuesday evening a very distressing accident occured at Pleasant Gap which fortunately did not result in the loss of life, although the parties concerned are all badly injured. Sigmund Joseph, Mrs. Holtz, Harry Holtz and Mrs. Clark of the Brockerhoff House were out driving, and when coming up the Horntown road at W. H. Nolls store the harness broke. Harry Holtz who was driving turned the horse to the side of the road to prevent accident, but in turning the carriage was upset and the entire party thrown from the vehicle. Mrs. Holtz's shoulder was broken, Harry Holtz has a broken wrist, Mrs. Clark sustained injuries in addition to sprained ligaments in the shape of numerous bruises while Sigmund got off with torn ligaments and bruises.

All of the unfortunates are getting along as well as can be expected, but suffering from the injuries received.

HARRY THAW KILLS STANFORD WHITE!

Sensational Tragedy in New York City.

THAW FLED TO AN EXIT

But There He Was Quickly Seized and Disarmed by a Policeman—Happened in Madison Square Roof Garden.

HUSBAND OF EVELYN NESBIT!

New York, June 26—Stanford White, the eminent architect, of the firm of McKim Mead & White, was shot last night and killed almost instantly by Harry Thaw, a member of the prominent Pittsburg family, during the performance of the musical extravaganza "Mamzelle Champagne" on the roof of the Madison Square Garden. Mr. White died before an ambulance could be summoned and Thaw was arrested immediately after the shooting.

The Madison Square roof garden, which has been closed for several years, was crowded with a fashionable audience While Harry Short, who fills the principal comedy role in the piece was singing a comic song and the garden was echoing with the laughter and applause of the audience a series of shots rattled in the rear of the auditorium and a man in evening dress was seen to fall across a table at which he was sitting with a party of friends.

The man who had fired the shots fled; pistol in hand toward the nearest exit, where he was seized and disarmed by policemen.

Instantly the audience was thrown into a panic and a wild stampede occurred during which chairs and tables were overturned and men and women fought with desperation to get from the roof.

The man who was shot was quickly identified as Mr. White, but his assailant was not positively known to be Thaw until after he had been taken to the station house.

Persons in the front of the auditorium where the tragedy occurred say that they saw a man sitting with a fashionably dressed woman in the rear, suddenly walk down towards a table in front.

The first intimation of trouble came when, walking in front of his seated victim, the man exclaimed: "You deserve this you've ruined my home,' and drawing an automatic pistol fired three shots. The first two took effect, but as the third was discharged the pistol was struck up by a fireman on duty and the pistol went skywards.

The woman who had been sitting with Thaw sprang to her feet and rushed up to the assailant, who was struggling with the fireman, threw her arms about his neck exclaiming. "I'll stand by you."

The assailant was taken to the West Thirtieth street police station, where he described himself as John Smith, a student of No 180 Lafayette Place, Washington, D. C., but the police on searching him found cards and letters addressed to Harry Thaw, of Pittsburg.

Later his identity was fully established. The woman in the case was Evelyn Nesbitt, whose marriage with Thaw for a time estranged the latter from his family.

HISTORY OF YOUNG THAW.

Pittsburg, June 26.—Harry Kendall Thaw is about 26 years old, and is the son of the late William Thaw, who was Vice President of the Pennsylvania line west. He was a graduate of the Western University of Pennsylvania, and when in Pittsburg made his home with his mother at Lynhurst, Beechwood Boulevard, in the east end of this city. Since his graduation from college and the attainment of his majority Thaw has lived little in Pittsburg. Much of his time has been spent abroad, and it was while in Paris that he met Evelyn Nesbitt, the actress, whom he afterwards married, and who was in Madison Square Garden when the shooting occurred Monday night. Harry Thaw is a brother of J. Copeley Thaw, the Countess of Yarmouth, who was Alice Thaw, and also of Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie, of Cumberland, Fla. He is also a half brother of Benjamin Thaw.

MOTHER IS ON OCEAN.

Mrs. William Thaw, mother of Harry, sailed for Europe Saturday. She is on her way to visit her daughter, the Countess of Yarmouth Harry and his bride were booked to sail on Wednesday of this week. No reason for the shooting can be assigned by friends of the family in this city that could be reached Monday night. The Thaw residence on the Beechwood Boulevard did not respond to telephone calls, and later it was learned that it was closed except for care takers. While attending the University in this city it was said that Harry Thaw was a student of quiet habits. When he attained his majority, however, he appeared to develop a fancy for traveling, and after a short residence in New York left for Paris.

His prospective trip upon which he was to start on Wednesday was for the purpose of joining his mother in Europe and visiting his sister, the Countess.

After the feast the members were brought westward on a special train.

No More Flaring Posters.

The Pennsylvania Billposters' and Distributors Association, at its recent meeting held in Erie, passed resolutions condeming the posting of all sensational, vicious and suggestive pictures and titles of theatrical paper. They also suggest that such action be taken at the national convention at Chicago, July 9th, that will compel all such printing to be refused for posting by all members of the National Association on and after November 1st, 1906.

W. W. MONTGOMERY.

Mrs. Monteith's Country Cousin

By EDITH M. DOANE

Copyright, 1906, by W. R. Caldwell

A little way beyond Sheffield the Pittsfield express stopped in the open country.

Jack Austin leaned back in his seat in the drawing room car and gloomily viewed the discouraging vista of mud and driving easterly rain outside. He did not yearn for a week end in the wilds of New England in March, but Monteith's wife had set her heart upon celebrating her husband's birthday at their country house, so Austin, being fond of Monteith, held his peace and wisely submitted to the inevitable.

Mrs. Monteith's note had not tended to brighten the prospect.

My little cousin from the country, Kittie Adams, will be there [the letter ran] and I shall depend upon you as Dick's friend to see that she enjoys herself, as this is her first experience in "society." Kate Reynolds, the western heiress, whom every one was wild about at Bar Harbor last summer, is back from Europe and will be here too. All the men are sure to be at her feet, and it is only because I know your aversion to the modern society belle that I dare ask you to look after Kittie. Cordially,

DORA MONTEITH.

He felt a horrible conviction that he could never stand three days of it, but if the worst came to worst he could be summoned back to New York by urgent business, and if he must be dragged about the chains of the country cousin were preferable to the golden ones of the heiress.

"WILL YOU TELL ME IF THERE IS ANY DANGER?"

He hardly noticed at first that the train had stopped, but when the stoppage continued and one man after another got up and went out his curiosity was aroused, and he followed them out into the chilly, drizzling rain.

On the track ahead a confused black heap was piled up. A freight train had been wrecked, how no one knew. No one was hurt, but it was an awkward business, and there was no saying how soon the rails would be clear.

There was a certain comfort in the thought that each hour added to the journey meant one less with the country cousin, Jack Austin reflected grimly, swinging himself up the steps of the car, disgust written in the set of his broad shoulders, in every line of his face. Suddenly as he passed down the aisle on his way to his seat a voice exclaimed:

"Mr. Austin!" and then, "I am sorry to trouble you, but," anxiously, "will you tell me if there is any danger?"

Austin turned, pulled his cap from his head and found himself staring in blank surprise into the face of a tall, dark eyed girl, who eyed him with a mixture of amusement and apprehension.

"I—I beg your pardon," he stammered.

"Is there any danger?" she repeated anxiously.

"Oh, no; none whatever. I hope you were not frightened," he replied, pulling himself together as well as a man can who is face to face with a distractingly pretty girl.

"I confess it did startle me."

He stood silent, looking down at her.

"But of course," demurely, "I am not frightened now."

"I wonder, if you'd mind telling me," he said irrelevantly, "how you came to know my name?"

She laughed, and a wave of color dyed her face a delicious pink.

"With the initials on your bag and a photograph at Mrs. Monteith's—who talks a great deal of Jack Austin—it was not very difficult to make two and two into four."

A sudden light illuminated Austin's brain. So this charming apparition was the "little country cousin." He would not have jumped so quickly to his conclusion had he not dimly remembered that Mrs. Monteith had mentioned her coming on this train.

"Other people can make two and two into four," he returned radiantly. "I am delighted to meet you, Miss Adams."

It was easy to see that she was tremendously surprised. "How did you know?" she asked and laughed, and then she laughed again.

"Telepathy," he responded. "I am great at it. You would be surprised if I told you all I know about you."

"For example?"

"That you live in a small, but delightful country town."

"And?"

"That you are about to make your first plunge into that much overrated whirlpool—society."

"Oh," she said, "how can you tell? It is wonderful!" She laughed again, subsiding on her chair in her merriment.

"If you'll let me sit down," he said, "I'll complete the picture."

While he spoke he had taken off his heavy ulster and thrown it over the back of the vacant chair beside her.

"I have heard of you from your cousin, Mrs. Monteith," he said gently. "She told me how difficult it was to get you away from Hilldale even for Dick's birthday. Now, that it all wrong." The thought of all this loveliness wasting unappreciated in Hilldale lent added fervor to his voice. "You are bound to have a jolly time at the Monteiths'."

"But it will be so different—from—Hilldale. So many people." Something perilously close to a smile touched her lips.

"You will soon grow accustomed to all that," tranquilly.

"Think how nervous I shall be before I do. The introductions—the first dinners."

"But I am to take you in to dinner," he returned contentedly. Truly the fates had been exceedingly kind.

She glanced at him swiftly. "How do you know?"

"Mrs. Monteith promised."

"Sure you won't regret it?"

He eyed her reproachfully, and she laughed again.

"Do you know the rest of the party?"

He mentioned what names he knew. "And the new western heiress," he added.

"Who is she?"

"Miss Reynolds. I doubt if you will care for her. She has had a lot of attention, and I dare say her head has been turned by it."

"Oh!"

"I never saw a beautiful heiress yet who was not spoiled," he said tranquilly.

The girl flushed and bit her lip.

Their conversation became so engrossing that when at last the train after much wheezing protest began slowly to move they scarcely noticed it until the brakeman opened the door.

"Next station Lenox!" he bawled.

As the train slackened speed Austin helped her into her fur coat, threw on his own coat with a jerk, seized her possessions and his and helped her out on the wet platform, where a carriage was waiting.

The drive was not a long one, and the carriage soon stopped before a rambling stone house. At the sound of the wheels the door flew open and Mrs. Monteith peered out into the darkness. The carriage lamp shone on the faces of the arrivals.

"Oh, Dick, it's Jack Austin, and Kate Reynolds is with him," she cried.

Later, as Miss Reynolds was about to go to her room, Jack Austin stopped her at the foot of the wide staircase.

"I owe you a humiliating explanation," he began.

"You do, but I will spare you," she smiled, holding out her hand in friendly fashion.

She did not despise him, then, for being such a sublime idiot. He flushed with happiness.

On the second stair she turned to him again. Her eyes danced with mischief.

"Remember you promised to take me to dinner!"

Mrs. Monteith glanced at them, then looked ruefully toward a tall lean girl standing awkwardly on the hearth rug.

"Poor Kitty!" she sighed.

Chemical Changes.

By taking some limewater and blowing one's breath into it a fine white powder will be formed in the water.

By adding some common salt to a solution of nitrate of silver a thick white powder is produced which, if placed in the sunlight, will turn brown.

Pour the juice of a red cabbage into a test tube or thin glass bottle, drop in very gradually a solution of washing soda, shaking the bottle every time you put the washing soda in, and you will see the red solution gradually turning blue. Go on adding the soda solution, and the blue color will give way to green.

Repressed Sentiments.

People who marry always hear good wishes, congratulations and other pleasant remarks, but they miss much in not hearing the repressed sentiments which burst forth to others. A woman who recently received a wedding announcement from a friend was heard to exclaim in tones of disgust, "What a willful disregard of the manifestation of Providence when she was so plainly intended for an old maid!"

The Evidence Was All In.

A juryman went to sleep during the closing speech of one of the counsel in the case in an English court. The judge had him awakened and sternly rebuked him. "My lord," said the juror, "I was under the impression that I was sworn to give a verdict according to the evidence, not according to the speeches."

Three Kinds.

There are three kinds of good—the kind that feels good, the kind that looks good and the kind that opposes evil. And the first two are good for nothing.

A HUMBLE HEROINE.

Mother Mary Teresa and the Cross of the Legion of Honor.

Some years ago in a city in France all the soldiers were drawn up on the plaza. A woman in the habit of charity was called out in front of the governor general, and this is what he said:

"Mother Mary Teresa, when you were twenty years of age you received a wound from a cannon ball while assisting one of the wounded on the field at Balaklava. In 1859 the shell from a mitrailleuse laid you prostrate in the front ranks on the battlefield of Magenta. Since then you have been in Syria, in China and in Mexico, and if you were not wounded it was not because you have not exposed yourself.

"In 1870 you were taken up in Reischoffen covered with many saber wounds. Such deeds of heroism you crowned a few weeks ago with one of the most heroic actions which history records. A grenade fell upon the ambulance which was under your charge. You took up the grenade in your arms; you smiled upon the wounded who looked at you with feelings of dismay; you carried it a distance of eighty meters. On laying it down you noticed that it was going to burst. You threw yourself on the ground; it burst. You were seen covered with blood, but when persons came to your assistance you rose up smiling, as is your wont. You were scarcely recovered from your wound when you returned to the hospital whence I have now summoned you."

Then the general made her kneel down and, drawing his sword, touched her lightly with it three times on the shoulder and pinned the cross of the Legion of Honor on her habit, saying:

"I put upon you the cross of the brave in the name of the French people and army. No one has gained it by more deeds of heroism nor by a life so completely spent in self abnegation for the benefit of your brothers and the service of your country. Soldiers, present arms!"

The troops saluted, the drums and bugles rang out, the air was filled with loud acclamations, and all was jubilation and excitement as Mother Teresa arose, her face suffused with blushes, and asked:

"General, are you done?"

"Yes," said he.

"Then I will go back to the hospital."—From "The Companionship of Books," by Frederic Rowland Marvin.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

There is no such thing as a secret.

A reasonable probability is the only certainty.

Men who have violated the law say it is not hard to do.

Romance is like fire—if you play with it you are liable to be burned.

There is too little attention given to two mighty important words, "Don't tell."

It is a bad plan to seek to make a good impression by following every statement with an apology.

The trouble is when we do things for our friends we do things we want to instead of what they would be pleased to have us do.

We can't understand why people try to deceive others, but cannot understand why they should try to deceive themselves, as so many seem to do.—Atchison Globe.

When Musicians Were Scarce.

In these days of conservatories and music schools, when each house has its piano or its organ, to say nothing of devotees to the cornet, violin and banjo, it seems strange to assert that there ever was a time when musicians were in demand, yet such was really the case. "In the fifteenth century," says Mr. Henry M. Brooks in his "Olden Time Music," "musicians were so scarce in England that they were impressed by government order, as in more recent times seamen had to suffer in like manner. Henry VIII. also issued warrants for the impressment of children with good voices for the choirs of the cathedrals, and in Elizabeth's time children with the proper qualification for her majesty's choirs were taken from their parents without any compensation being given to the latter."

Weighing Common Air.

The weight of air has often been tested by compressing it in receptacles by the air pump. That it really has weight when so compressed is shown by the fact that the weight of the vessels is increased slightly by filling them with compressed air and that such vessels become specifically "lighter" as soon as the air contained in them is exhausted. Many elaborate experiments on the weight of air have proved that one cubic foot weighs 536 grains, or something less than one and a quarter ounces. The above experiment on the weight of air is supposed to be made at the surface of the earth with the temperature at 50 degrees F. Heated air, or air at high elevations, is much lighter.

Penney to Sell B. & O. Stock.

Philadelphia, June 11.—The North American says that a proposition is understood to have been put in tentative shape within the last few days to have the Pennsylvania Railroad company sell its holdings of Baltimore & Ohio stock to the Philadelphia & Reading Railway company. It is proposed to establish an independent trunk line system by combining the Baltimore & Ohio, Philadelphia & Reading and the Jersey Central railroads into one company. This would make a railroad system connecting all the large cities of the United States from New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore on the Atlantic seaboard to Chicago and St. Louis in the west.

BERLIN IS MACHINE MADE.

English Writer Calls It Stiff, Rigid and Rectilinear.

Was Berlin made last year or the year before? It is impossible to say from looking at it. Some of the trees in the streets look at least ten years old, but they must have been planted long before the city was thought of. The houses and the streets and the lampposts and the statues are all much too neat and new to have endured the rains of more than one winter. It is all, in fact, quite too new to be comfortable. One feels afraid to sleep in any of the houses lest rheumatism should be lying in wait in rooms where the plaster has not had time to harden.

I drove from the station in a "droshki" with a monstrously old horse. Time had bent his forelegs into a very good imitation of a switchback railway, and as we plodded solemnly along the brand new asphalt roadway, with the brand new houses on either side and an occasional brand new electric car, with a brand new driver in a brand new uniform, I found myself wondering what the old horse must think of it all. One day he may have been grazing in an open field, and when he passed that way a week or so later he found a new broad boulevard, with hotels and shops and churches and great blocks of flats, all sprung up like mushrooms.

Berlin, then, is a great deal too perfect to be satisfactory. It is the machine made, not the hand made, article—it was very decidedly made, not born. There is no spontaneity in it, no life. Compared to, say, London, it is like a beautiful marble statue to a living woman.

Berlin is, in fact, an awful object lesson to emperors and others who try to make a capital city out of a respectable village. It is easy to put up imposing buildings—if you have the money—and to cut out broad tree lined roads and have everything neat and nice and fine, but you only make your village bigger and finer without making it any the more a capital city. There is no getting away from the feeling that Berlin is a village—a big village, a beautiful, rectilinear, new-out-of-the-bandbox village, but a village all the same.—London Chronicle.

GIRGENTI THE BEAUTIFUL.

"No Place of Ruins In the World More Beautiful Than This."

Every one has heard of Girgenti, as of Syracuse, before coming to Sicily. The most beautiful city of antiquity has left an endearing name, and if the Girgenti of today be far from the Agrigentum of Roman splendor and still further from the Acragas of Greek beauty and magnificence it is still nobly worth seeing. Even the least responsive imagination can hardly fail to apprehend some idea of what this town must have been of old, when Acragas, with its vast extent and over 200,000 inhabitants, looked out across the dark blue waters of the Greek sea or Mare Africano from a lordly wilderness of superb temples and magnificent buildings of all kinds. Today it is worth a pilgrimage from the ends of the earth. There is perhaps no place of ruin in the whole world more beautiful than this. To see it, as the present writer last saw it, in a golden sunset glow, with the great temples gleaming like yellow ivory and the town itself of a dusky gold and the sea beyond and uplands and mountains behind irradiated with a serene glory of light, is to see what will be for life an unforgettable impression, an ever deeply moving remembrance.

To localize the three loveliest views in Sicily (and I fancy that most travelers would agree with me) I should specify that from the terrace of the Hotel Timeo at Taormina, that from the monastery-hostelry of Madonna del Tindaro over Tyndaris and the Aeolian isles and that from the terrace of the Hotel Belvedere on the south wall of Girgenti, looking out on the lovely temples, the beautiful uplands and slopes and the blue sea washing Porto Empedocle below.—Century.

How Canada Was Named.

According to an eminent authority, when the Portuguese under Gaspar Cortereal in 1500 first ascended the St. Lawrence they believed it to be the strait of which they were in quest, through which a passage might be discovered into the Indian sea. When, however, they arrived at the point when they could clearly ascertain that Machinery of Memory.

The machinery of memory was thus interestingly described by an authority on the brain: "The act of remembering something," he said, "involves a distinct change in the brain substance. The thing to be remembered is recorded by a little nerve cell. The first time the cell does its work an impression is made upon it. But that impression is apt to wear off unless the action of the cell is repeated, and the oftener this is the case the more fixed becomes the impression, or 'cell memory,' as it is called. Suppose that the work of this particular cell is to enable you to recognize a certain smell. If the impression is made but once, the cell may fail to retain it, but if it is repeated several times a lasting impression will be made, and you will recognize the particular odor when you meet with it again."

Homer's Seven Cities.

It has been said that "seven cities claimed Homer dead, who while living had no place to lay his head," or words to that effect—that is to say, Homer's fame became such after his death that seven cities contended for the honor of having been the place of his birth. Do you know the name of those seven cities? They are Chios, Athens, Rhodes, Colophon, Argos, Smyrna and Salamis.

IN THE SHADOW OF DEATH.

The Approach of the Black Rider Does Not Incite Fear.

As Sir Walter Scott lay dying he summoned his great friend to his side by a motion of his hand and whispered: "Lockhart, I may have but a minute to speak to you. My dear, be a good man. Be virtuous, be religious—be a good man. Nothing else will give you any comfort when you come to lie here."

Nelson in the midst of his gratefulness for having died victoriously for England thought for a flashing moment of his early record in its relation to the life after death. "Doctor," he said to the surgeon, "I have not been a great sinner."

On the other hand, there are innumerable instances in the records of biography pointing to the fact that men die without a thought of the world beyond. Charles II. died thinking of "Poor Nell." Sir Richard Grenville died with his mouth full of oaths, cursing the "traitors and dogs" who had surrendered his little Revenge to the Spaniards. History is full of such instances.

"Indeed, it is a memorable subject for consideration," says Stevenson, "with what unconcern and gayety mankind runs on along the valley of the shadow of death. The whole way is one wilderness of snares, and the end of it for those who fear the last pinch is irrevocable ruin. And yet we go spinning through it all, like a party for the Derby."

A doctor tells me that in a very long hospital experience he has never known of a sensational deathbed. The approach of death is, as a rule, doubted, and up to the last moment of consciousness the passing soul retains its conviction in the endurance of earthly things.

Soldiers tell the same story. To die jesting seems the last act of courage possible to a fighting man, and he makes the most of it. Endless are the stories of soldiers dying in action with a shout of humor on their lips.

Even more wonderful is the cold bloodedness of men going to the scaffold. To feel the edge of the ax was something of a jest in old days, and there is the story of the felon going to Tyburn who blew the froth from his last mug of beer because it always gave him indigestion!

And yet it is only in brief moments that the true horror of death sweeps over the soul. We do not think about it. We put it away from us. Humanity has made up its mind not to be frightened. Death indeed is even preferred before life. A hopeless infatuation for a painted doll will drive Fortunatus to suicide. Money troubles will fling a man under a passing express, and dyspepsia has loaded many a revolver. Life may be unendurable, but death is not to be feared. Into the unthinkable mysteries of the universe a soul casts itself in a petulance and the waters of death close over it without a sound.

What has become of that soul? Where is that consciousness gone—that personality, that individual force which differed the man from every other who ever lived?

But the mob who watch the poor drenched and bloated and horrible body wheeled away to the mortuary turn away without any realization of death. They go to their taverns and their merchandise, take up the old greasy and well worn threads of their existence, and getting of food monopolizes all their thoughts.

Fear death? They fear nothing in the world. They are not even afraid of themselves.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Unfortunate Inventors.

"Trevethick," said an inventor in a bitter tone, "invented the first steam locomotive. He exhibited it in London on a circular track. It ran fifteen miles an hour. Trevethick, though, made nothing out of his invention. People laughed at it. They'd have none of it. All Trevethick accomplished in his life was to pave the way for Stephenson's success. He died in poverty, poor fellow.

"Koenig invented the steam printing press. His partner, Bensley, cheated him. Koenig, to support life, had to sell his patents. He died a poor machinist, working for about $8 a week.

"Whitney, the inventor of the cotton gin, didn't make a cent out of his idea.

"Howe, the inventor of the sewing machine, sold his patent rights for a passage to England. He was a mill hand when his machine was putting millions in the pockets of other men.

"Jacquard, the inventor of the famous loom, might have become a billionaire. This unselfish Frenchman, though, gave his invention to the government, and all he got in return—all he asked in return—was a pension of $120 a year.

Gentian Root.

Gentian root, often used as a tonic, is considered in many malarial countries a remedy against intermittent fever. Especially is this the case in Corsica, in that section of the island near the town of Aleria, which is infested with malaria. The inhabitants recently protested violently against the introduction of quinine on the part of the medical authorities, declaring that they would not abandon the remedy which had been used among them for centuries, the gentian root, either powdered or simply masticated.

Quite the Contrary.

"After all, my friend," began the solemn stranger, "life is but a dream, a"—

"Not much, it ain't," snorted the hard headed man. "In nearly every dream I ever had I was gettin' more money than I knowed what to do with."—Philadelphia Press.

HOWARD COBBLER HAPPY THOUGH WITHOUT FEET.

Works Daily at His Trade and Makes a Comfortable Living for His Large Family.

From Easton Sunday Call.

A case of contentment under seemingly adverse circumstances came to the writer's attention lately in the little town of Howard, Centre county. During a few hours stop in that delightful place, we found that our shoes needed mending and we asked for the village cobbler. We were directed to the shop of the only repairer of shoes in the town. We found him to be a man without feet, and learned that he had been born that way. His only means of locomotion was by treading on his knees. That he was a poor man his appearance indicated and that it was necessary that he should work or be a public charge we learned from him while waiting for the work he did for us. His name is J. R. Boney, and any reader of "The Sunday Call" who may visit Howard should see him as an exhibition of contentment under circumstances most people would consider especially lamentable. He is 74 years old and told us he had worked all his life.

"Fifty years ago," he said, "people told me I should go on the township, but I never would, for I was able to earn my living. I was born in Snyder county, this state, and have done all kinds of farm work. I have built stone walls, split rails, worked in haying and harvest, and when a young man could hold my own with the best." "I don't suppose you have a family," was our inquiry. "Indeed I have," replied Mr. Boney. "I was married twice. With my first wife, who is dead, had nine children, and with my second I had two, the oldest now three years of age and the baby came just four weeks ago."

After Mr. Boney had finished the job we had for him he returned to a lot adjoining his shop, in which he was raising a crop of potatoes, and hoe in hand got rid of the weeds as well as any man who could stand on feet. As an example of physical deprivation and actual contentment with his condition we think Mr. Boney is a rare character.

While talking to this poor, crippled and hard-working man our copybook of long ago with "Contentment is better that riches" came to our mind. We could but compare the condition of this old shoemaker working for his daily necessities with the worry of business with the desire for more, and more, and still more seen day after day in the lives of so many Eastonians. Who is most to be pitied, Mr. Boney, the contented Howard shoemaker, or those whom we meet daily in Easton who are the slaves of ambition, whose wants when gratified only spur them on to newer endeavors or still greater pains?

Finished Cutting Immense Timber Tract.

The Culp Lumber Co., of Lewisburg, Union county, will shortly be removed to Maryland. According to the Lewisburg Journal, that community will be robbed of a prosperous industry, which kept 150 men in steady employment. The company was working the timber land in Nittany and Buffalo mountains for the past ten years, and during that time cut about 80,000,000 feet of logs from the 36,000 acres of land that the company controls in the forests west of Lewisburg.

Townships Must Provide High Schools.

According to State Superintendent Schaeffer's interpretation of the school laws, any township that does not have a high school must pay the tuition of scholars who have passed the district school and wish to enter a high school, even if the high school is in another county.

Lock Haven uses Some Canned Goods.

The Lock Haven man who chloroformed the family cat the other day, and buried it eighteen inches deep in the back yard, only to find it sitting on the grave the next morning, made a mistake in not shipping it to Chicago—Phila. Evening Telegraph.

The Village Postoffice.

The Sunday Item says: A fact that may excite some comment is that while government is expending some $30,000,000 annually on the rural mail routes, giving that large amount of money in order that residents of the country may have their mail delivered to them, there is no provision for making things as handy in the way of mail matter for residents of small towns. They must be their own mail carriers to and from the postoffice. But their appears to be no kick coming from them on this account. They don't regard it as a slight nor a hardship, for the village postoffice always has been and will always continue to be a sort of trysting place where the residents rather enjoy meeting their neighbors. Their mingling together at the postoffice is promotive of sociability and neighborly fellowship.

I was unable to get up without assistance and from that time I suffered for years with a weak back and excruciating pains through the loins and through the small of my back. Sometimes I was completely prostrated and helpless. Doctors and medicines failed to help me and the pain continued until I got Doan's Kidney pills. Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know it.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

EDITORIAL.

Speaker Cannon says he yearns for an adjournment. The speaker has the public sympathy for once

The independent powder manufactures are already out with a circular blowing up Senator Dupont.

Oklahoma is preparing to celebrate her statehood, and promises to make the average Fourth of July look like a half grown green pickle.

Many Democratic papers are engaged in telling Bryan what a great political future he has it he will only be different from what he has been heretofore.

The Bryanites are so confident that they can hardly wait for 1908. Their flowers that bloom in the spring have always had hard luck in November.

Mr Bryan is so far away that he can be excused for confining himself to glittering generalities. The trouble will begin when he gets home and down to particulars.

Oregon has voluntarily selected a United States Senator by popular vote. There is more than one way to pick out representatives when the people are in earnest about it.

On his return Mr. Bryan will find that his fences have suffered considerably from breachy goldbugs, but they may retire hurriedly when they undertake to tease the Populist.

—What a great grower the reform mushroom is, Treasurer Berry had not been able to announce that no reform was needed in the treasury before they nominated him for govenor and now the Hon. Lewis Emery Jr., is wanted for president before he is elected governor. It beats Jonah's ground.

It is safe to say that the Republican party of Pennsylvania never had a better platform nor a better candidate for governor than it has this year; and it is altogether marvelous that at this particular fact before them, men who have posed as reformers when there was something worthy of their cry, should be in loud and distressful tone.

ARE YOU FOR BRYAN?

It is to be hoped that Republicans who went along with the Lincoln Party and over to the Democracy last year well seriously consider the resolutions that Democats everywhere are adopting looking to the rehabilitation of Bryanism.

There is no better sample of these resolutions than the expression of opinion placed on record by the Democratic convention of Chester county: The Democratic Party of Pennsylvania, in county convention assembled, pledges itself to the time-honored principles of Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson, and believing the greatest living exponent of those principles to do that wise and conservative statesman, unfaltering patriot and superb leader William Jennings Bryan, and recognizing the rapidly growing confidence of the American people in his honesty, integrity and absolute purity, we hereby indorse the public career of Colonel Bryan and express the hope that he will be the nominee of the Democratic Party for President of the United States in 1908.

There is no better way for a Republican of Pennsylvania to help along the Bryan cause than by smashing the Republican Party next November. The Republican Party in plain language pledges itself to square the accounts between the people and the corporations; to break up the system of railroads owing or operating mines or being interested in the products they transport; to put an end to rebates or discriminations under any other name; to give the trolley companies the right to carry freight, in spite of the opposition of the steam lines.

And the Republican Party can be trusted to carry out these policies to the letter, because it has given evidence of its good faith through its splendid work upon the reform measures in the late sessions of the Legislature.

Why Marriage was a Failure.

He regarded children as a nuisance.

He did all his courting before marriage.

He never talked over his affairs with his wife.

He doled out money to his wife as if to a servant.

He looked down upon his wife as an inferior being.

He thought of his wife only as a cheap housekeeper.

He never took time to get acquainted with his family.

He never dreamed that there were two sides to marriage.

He never dreamed that a wife deserved praise or compliments.

He had one set of manners for home and another for society.

He thought his wife should spend all her time doing housework.

He married an ideal, and was disappointed to find it had flaws.

He paid no attention to his personal appearance after marriage.

He treated his wife as he would not have dared to treat another woman.—Detroit News.

QUITE AN AMERICAN EVENING

There Was a Big Electric Illumination in Honor of the President's Daughter.

Kiel, June 24th.—Emperor William when he was certain of the day on which Mr. and Mrs. Longworth would arrive here, telegraphed to Princess Eitel Frederick, asking if she could not come to Kiel at once so that Mrs. Longworth could be entertained abroad the Hamburg the emperor's improvised yacht. It is the emperor's rule never to invite women on board his vessels unless the empress or one of the imperial princesses are present.

Emperor Augusta Victoria, it is understood, desires to remain near the crown princess, and Princess Henry of Prussia is taking a holiday in Bavaria, and Princess Eitel Frederick, who also is a bride, has arranged to go on a cruise in the Hamburg with the imperial party after the regatta, but upon receiving the emperor's telegram she came from Potsdam immediately, arriving here Saturday evening with Prince Eitel, and Mr. and Mrs. Longworth were invited to dine with the emperor tonight.

It was quite an American evening. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Longworth, Howard and George Armour and Mr. and Mrs. Jordan Mott were present. Princess Eitel was amiable and Emperor William jolly and complimentary to America and Americans.

After the dinner the emperor and Princess Eitel with their guest and the emperor's staff, went on the quarter deck of the Hamburg to witness the illuminations. The club house, the hotel and other buildings were outlined in electric lights and the sixteen battleships, ten cruisers, twelve merchant ships and one hundred yachts in the harbor were strung with incandescent globes, while many searchlights playing about made a gorgeous scene. Just above the room in the hotel occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Longworth were the stars and stripes in colored lights. A great assemblage from Kiel and neighboring towns crowded the water front to witness the illumination.

Mr. and Mrs. Longworth were detained by Emperor William until after 11 o'clock The illumination ended with every warship sending up blazing rockets.

The large class yachts raced again today.

Mr. and Mrs. Longworth followed the races on Allison Armour's steam yacht Utowna. Bands on the excursion steamers played the American national anthem when passing the vessel.

Sayings of Susan B. Anthony.

SENTIMENT never was and never can be a guarantee for Justice.

No man is good enough to govern any woman without her consent.

As there is no way out of this job except through it, through it I must go.

Self-government is necessary for the best development of women as of men.

To prevail with the rank and file of voters, you must appeal to their sense of justice.

Everyone who gives a dollar helps do the work where it is most needed to gain the pratical result.

The one distinctive feature of our association has been the right of individual opinion for every member.

I pray every single second of my life; not on my knees, but with my work. Work and worship are one with me.

I have not allied and shall not ally myself to any party or measure save the one of justice and equality for women.

There is money enough in this country today in the hands of the few, if justly distributed, to make "good times" for all.

The "greatest compliment" ever paid me was that by my life work I had helped to make the conditions of the world better for women.

Why can we not keep with the brave and beautiful souls; why cannot the the weak and wicked go? The world seems darker to me now; a light has gone out.

All sectarian creeds and all politcal policies sink into utter insignificance compared with the essence of religion and the fundamental principle of government—equal rights.

If we do not inspire in women a broad and catholic spirit, they will fail when enfranchised, to constitute that power for better government which we have always claimed for them.

Player Hit on Head by Pitched Ball Dies.

Edward T. Dillon, a well known athlete and one of the best train dispatchers in the employment of the Pennsylvania railroad, died at his home in Pittsburg Friday from injuries received in a base ball game.

He was hit on the head Thursday in a match played by two railroad teams. The game took place at Leetedale, and F. C. Clearwater, one of the oldest friends Dillon had, was pitching at the time. The ball hit Dillon in the left temple and he fell to the ground, but was up in an instant laughing, and saying he was not hurt.

Half an hour later, he fell to the ground unconscious and never rallied, dying in the afternoon. Clearwater, who pitched the ball, is almost crazed.

HER 96th BIRTHDAY.

Centre Counties Oldest Woman Celebrates the Event.

Mrs. Elizabeth Evans Reese, who is probably Centre County's oldest woman celebrated the event Thursday June 21, 1906, with a birthday celebration at her home on a plateau of Muncy mountain in Patton township. She is ninety-six years old and the widow of Christian Reese.

Quite a large number of guests were present including not only her neighbors on the mountain, friends from Bald Eagle and Buffalo Run Valleys and some from Bellefonte. Of course there was a big dinner enjoyed by all present; speeches and some delightful music. It was a great day for everyone present and hugely enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Reese was born March 3rd 1810 in Ferguson township. Her maiden name was Miss Elizabeth Evans.

She was united in marriage to Christian Reese, of Bald Eagle, and for the past fifty years has lived at her present home on Muncy mountain. Her husband died a number of years ago, but of their nine children seven survive, as follows: Dr. O. P. Reese, of Kylertown; Aaron W., of Port Matilda; Joseph, of Williamsport; Mrs. Geo. W. Twitmire, of Wilmington, Del; Mrs. A. H. Hoover, of Muncy mountain, and Mrs. Kate Burkett and Miss Emma Reese, at home. One remarkable fact about the children is that they were all, at one time or another, school teachers, and among the best in Centre county.

For her age Mrs. Reese is probably one of the best preserved women, both physically and mentally, in the county. Her health is good and her mind unusually active and acute. She is a great reader, not only of the Bible, but of the weekly and daily newspapers, in consequence of which she is unusually well informed and talks intelligently on any subject, discussing the current events of the day in a remarkable manner for one of her age. That she may live and enjoy her present good health to round out plenty more such happy birthday gatherings was the hope of everyone present at the gathering.

Hand Work Lingerie.

From time immemorial and to the end of time hand work has been and will continue to be the only recognized medium for producing lingerie, saving only, of course, in the case of washing petticoats, when the services of the sewing machine are most justifiably requisitioned. And it is handwork, among other virtues, that renders the goods, under discussion of such inestimable value and desirability.

An Empire nightrobe will be easily distinguished, and this, in fine French cambric generously inlet with lace, and adorned with a wealth of tiny lingerie tucks—a trimming that, contrary to custom, is continued below the threaded ribbon outline—is being offered at wholly irresistable prices. As the sketch discloses, it is quiet a trousseau item, although not, at the same time, in any way outside the requirements of the ordinary fastidious woman.

Splendidly practical is the cache corset, with its short shaped basque, to protect the lower half of the corset. Valenciennes lace again, inset, not only adorns the front, but is equally in evidence at the back, and is responsible for the dainties effect.

A smart little French cut chemise of cambric, ornamented with diamond motifs of lace and groups of lingerie tucks, and knickers en suite, conclude a pictured story that should prove a sufficient incentive to all who are in need of lingerie luxuries to lay in a stock of what is to be found in up-to-date stores.

All For a Nickel!

Anyone who fails to get a copy of The Pittsburg Dispatch next Sunday, July 1, will miss a rare treat. Everyone knows The Dispatch is the "best always" but there are some reasons why next Sunday's paper will eclipse any other paper in this or any other territory.

First, a beautiful picture, 15x15 worth framing and fit to adorn the wall of any room in any house, will be given absolutely free.

Next Sunday's Dispatch will contain the first part of "The Lady Evelyn" by Max Pemberton a novel of charming romance, lightning action, extraordinary mystery. It cost $150,000 to secure the right to publish this novel and eleven others before they are published in book form. The Dispatch was successful in securing the right to publish them in its territory, one complete novel every month.

"Peck's Bad Boy" and "Little Growling Bird," pronounced the best comic features in the country, have been added to the comic section of The Dispatch making it better than the comic section of any other two papers.

A fine, large half tone picture of the new St. Paul's Cathedral will adorn the first page of the illustrated section. A score of other exclusive features and the news of all the world with the best sporting pages published anywhere will make the coming Sunday issue of The Dispatch a great bargain for the nickel invested. If you should not be a regular reader, tell your newsdealer to save you a copy of next Sunday's Dispatch.

W. C. T. U Starts Crusade Against Shirtwaists That Are Woven like Hammocks.

A systematic crusade against pen-work or "peek-a-boo" shirtwaists is being inaugurated by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Philadelphia, which will probably be joined by the Christian Endeavor societies and other women's organizations which have expressed themselves opposed to the scant affairs called lingerie waists.

"The "evil" will be hard to suppress, as these waists are the popular summer garment, but the Purity Department of the W. C. T. U., thinks they are scandalious and should be prohibited.

Just how to go about eliminating them from the feminine wardrobe and how to discriminate between the allowable and the impossible is the problem.

A man's suggestion was to limit the size and number of holes in the porous garments, but of course women know a waist need'nt have a sigle perforation in it and yet be shockingly transparent.

The W. C. T. U. has decided to wage its crusade by creating sentiment against the offending articles and by example.

The West Philadelphia branch of the organization will discuss the impropriety of the waists at its young women's meetings on Thursdays, and the business women who attend will be urged by President Katherine Dey Hauck to promulgate a doctrine of decent dress.

Dr. Harriet French, the venerable head of the Union, is greatly opposed to the condemned waists, and will lend her aid toward their suppression.

Elbow sleeves have come in for their share of condemnation, the members deploring this ugly and silly fashion of baring the arms.

This dress reform movement originated in Massachusetts, the president of the W. C. T. U. there taking up the cudgets against everything open work, from hosiery to shirtwaists.

To Wed Stepmother; 'Tis a Love Match

"Strange to marry my stepmother? Why, it seems the most natural thing in the world."

So spoke Kilburn Hoyt Stone, Jr., of Chicago who will wed Mrs. Kilburn Hoyt Stone, June 28, after two years of mourning for Kilburn Hoyt Stone, Sr.

Marriage of a stepson to his widowed stepmother is remarkable even in Chicago where cupid's surprises are the rule.

In making his stepmother his wife the stepson will lose a stepmother. Incidentally Mr. Stone is marrying an heiress, as the stepmother is the niece and next of kin to Millionaire Levant Stevens of Kenosha, Wis.

Mrs. Stone is an accomplished elocutionist and prominent in North Shore society circles. She is the daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Stevens Hatch, sister of the Kenosha millionaire.

Kilburn Hoyt Stone, Jr., on the maternal side, is related to the late George W. Childs, famous Philadelphian. He is a member of the Illinois Athletic association and other social organizations. He is 32 years old, and his bride-to-be is several years older.

"It has been known for some time among my friends that I am to marry my stepmother, and, of course, they think it is a great joke," said Stone. "We love each other."

A Day of Murders.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Pa., June 26.—Three murders were reported to the Washington county authorities Sunday, and as yet no arrests have been made.

Early Sunday morning the body of Michael Probika, a coal miner, was found in a tunnel of the Wabash road in Independence township. His skull had been crushed and both legs were broken. He had been shot through the heart and the body placed on the tracks to conceal the murder.

When last seen alive Probika had a large sum of money and was quarreling with a fellow Slav, Frank Ristar, for whom a warrant has been issued.

Later the body of Joseph Simpson, another coal miner, was found beneath a railroad car at Burgettstown. He had wounds on his head and chest, apparently inflicted with a pick. His pockets had been rifled.

The body of an unknown man, which is still unidentified, was found in the road near the Baltimore and Ohio tracks at Gilkeson, ten miles from this place. The only indication of the cause of death was a bruise on the temple. Robbery was apparently the motive for this murder also, as the pockets were turned inside out when found.

The police think tramps are responsible for the latter two deaths.

Jumps From Her Bed Lands on a Burglar.

Hearing a noise beneath her bed at 1 o'clock Friday morning, Miss Mary Thomas of Plymouth, jumped out and landed on the head and back of a man.

She was probably the more frightened of the two, and while she lost no time in rushing out into the hall and shrieking for help, the man lost none in jumping through the window and dashing down the street as fast as he could. He had stolen nothing.

FOURTH OF JULY ACCIDENTS.

Health Commissioner Wages Prompt Action to Prevent Lock Jaw.

Just previous to Fourth of July last year State Health Commissioner Samuel G. Dixon through the public press of Pennsylvania called the attention of the people to the great danger of lock jaw (tetanus) from wounds of toy pistols and other explosives, and he urged the necessity of immediate medical attendance in such cases. That the warning was widely heeded was shown by the great reduction in the number of tetanus cases following Fourth of July accidents. Indeed there were reported only a few scattered cases throughout the whole State. Health Commissioner Dixon again sends out a warning message in anticipation of the coming Fourth.

"The germ which produces tetanus grows best buried in the flesh away from the air," says Dr. Dixon, "and this germ which is found in earth, in the dust and in horse stables, and sometimes suspended in the air in windy localities, lodges easily in the small, clean cut wound made for instance by the blank cartridge.

"What I wish to impress upon every one, especially in there, is the very great seriousness of these wounds if they are not promptly and properly treated by those with full knowledge of the subject. Early treatment by a physician will often prevent the development of tetanus. Therefore, a doctor should be called at once to treat a penetrating wound even if slight, such as powder or other explosives are apt to make. In case of prolonged delay in obtaining the services of a physician a competent druggist or trained nurse might thoroughly wash the wound and apply hot antiseptics."

To the Sabbath Schools of Centre County.

In doing the "Field Work" under direction of the Centre County Sabbath School Association, Rev. A. C. Lathrop of Milesburg will tour the county during the month of July in somewhat the following order:

July 2 and 3, Philipsburg and Rush township; July 3, 5, Snow Shoe and Burnside townships; July 6, 8, Milesburg, Unionville, Boggs and Union townships; July 9, 10, Howard, Curtin and Liberty townships; July 10, 11, Marion and Walker townships; July 12, 13, Patton and Half Moon townships; July 14, 15, Taylor, Worth and Huston townships; July 16, 17, Bellefonte, Spring and Benner townships; July 18, 19, State College, College and Harris townships, July 20, 21, Ferguson township; July 22, Centre Hall, July 23, 25, Potter and Gregg townships; July 26, 29, Millheim, Penn, Miles and Haines townships.

In each district he will visit so far a practical pastors, superintendents, teachers and workers, and confer with them as to needs in their schools and practical advanced movements. He desires to assist all the schools possible in any helpful ways that he can. He will help in district conventions, hold workers conferences, etc. as desired. Use him in whatever way you need him. Such changes may be made in the dates given above as the best interests of the much demand.

—Nature has just one pigment on her palette with which she produces all the marvelous tints of beauty, and that one pigment is the blood. The shell-like pint beneath the finger nails, the delicate rose of the cherry ripeness of the lips, the irridescent brilliance of the eyes are all produced by the blood. Just as the permanence of a beautiful painting will depend upon the purity of the colors with which it is painted, so the permanence of beauty depends on the purity of the blood. Paint, powder and cosmetics won't avail to preserve beauty. Beauty begins in the blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a true beautifier, because it provides for nature that pure blood with which alone she can paint. The use of this medicine will cleanse the skin, heighten the complexion, brighten the eyes, and give to face and form that radiance of health which is the greatest charm of beauty. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are very effective in ridding the system of clogging residum, which accumulates with constipated habit.

THE BEST FRIENDS OF PE-RU-NA ARE THE MOTHERS AND CHILDREN

When Sickness Comes to the Little Ones

It Is the Mother Who Chiefly Suffers.

She suffers even more than the child who happens to be sick.

Her sympathy is deeper than that of any other member of the family.

The mothers look forward with dread to the torrid heat of summer, thinking of their children and the many liabilities to disease that are before them.

Spring and summer are sure to bring ailments, especially among the little folks.

It does not take a mother very long to discover that Peruna is the best friend she has in times of illness among the children.

The doctors may come and go with their different theories and constant change of remedies.

The doctor of years ago gave entirely different remedies than he does today.

Each year finds some change in his prescriptions and in the drugs he relies upon.

A Multitude of Mothers

Have discovered that Peruna is the stand-by, and that in all the ailments of spring and summer to which the children are subjected, Peruna is the remedy that will most quickly relieve.

Whether it is spring fever or stomach derangement, whether it is indigestion or bowel disease, a catarrhal congestion of the mucous surfaces is the cause.

Peruna quickly relieves this condition of the mucous membranes. Its operation is prompt, the children do not dislike to take the medicine, it has no deleterious effects in any part of the body.

It simple removes the cause of the disagreeable symptoms and restores the health.

Peruna is not a physic. Peruna is not a nervine nor a narcotic. Peruna does not produce any drug habit, however long it may be taken. Peruna is not a stimulant.

Peruna is a specific remedy for all catarrhal ailments of winter and summer, acute or chronic.

The mothers all over the United States are the best friends that Peruna has.

The Mothers Hold Pe-ru-na in High Esteem,

Not only because it has cured them of their various ailments, but because it always rescues the children from the throes and grasp of catarrhal diseases.

We have in our files bushels of testimonials from mothers whose children have been cured by Peruna. However, the large majority of mothers who use Peruna, we never hear from.

But we do hear from a great number of mothers who are so overjoyed at some special good they have received from Peruna that they cannot restrain their enthusiasm. They are anxious to share these benefits with other mothers.

The Benefit Which the Children of the United States Have Received From Pe-ru-na Can Never Be Put Into Words.

The chronic ailments it has prevented, the suffering it has mitigated, will never be fully recorded.

But at least this much can be said that the coming generation owes a great debt to Peruna, for it is in the tender years of youth that slight ailments are liable to develop into lasting disease, thus blasting the whole career of the individual.

The mothers who are bringing up their children to-day to believe in Peruna are doing a great work for humanity.

These children brought up to believe in Peruna from the start, will, when they become heads of families themselves, use Peruna with unquestioning faith.

Pe-ru-na Protects the Entire Household.

As soon as the value of Peruna is appreciated by every household, both as a preventive and cure, tens of thousands of lives will be saved, and hundreds of thousands of chronic, lingering cases of catarrh will be prevented.

Mrs. Thresa Rooke, 258 N. Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill., Treasurer Ladies' of the Maccabees, writes:

"In our home Peruna is the only medicine we have. Grandmother, mother, father and child, all have used Peruna. It is our great remedy for catarrh of the stomach and head, colds, and female complaints of which it has cured me.

"We find it of great value when my husband becomes worn out or catches cold. A couple of doses cure him.

"If the baby has colic, or any stomach disorders, a dose or two cures her.

"I consider Peruna finer than any doctor's medicine that I have ever tried, and I know that as long as we have it in the house, we will all be able to keep in good health."—Thresa Rooke.

No Doctor Required.

Mr. Edward Otto, 927 De Soto street, St. Paul, Minn., writes:

"I cannot say enough for Peruna. It has done great work in my family, especially for my oldest boy. We had doctored with three or four different doctors and they did not seem to do him any good.

"We gave up hopes of cure, and so did they, but we pulled him through on Peruna.

"We had several doctors and they said they could do no more for him so we tried Peruna as a last resort, and that did the work. Since then we keep it in the house all the time, and no doctor is required."—Edward Otto.

Pe-ru-na Contains No Narcotics.

One reason why Peruna has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotic of any kind. Peruna is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit. Peruna does not produce temporary results. It is permanent in its effect.

It has no bad effect upon the system, and gradually eliminates catarrh by removing the cause of catarrh.

There are a multitude of homes where Peruna has been used off and on for twenty years.

Such a thing could not be possible if Peruna contained any drugs of a narcotic nature.

Mr. G. H. Farmer, New Martinsville, W. Va., writes:

"Our little son, Harry, is well and healthy now and we think if we do as you directed us, he will keep his health and grow strong.

"We know that our little son's life was saved by your wonderful medicine, Peruna, and we shall always praise Peruna and use it in our family when needed.

"Should we have any more catarrhal trouble in our family, we shall always write to you for treatment."—G. H. Farmer.

Mr. Howard Andrew Sterner, Muddy Creek, Pa., writes:

"I have Peruna in my house all the time and won't be without it. It is good for children when they take a cold or croup. It cured my baby boy of croup.

"I have introduced Peruna into six families since I received your last letter, and four have seen relief already."—Howard Andrew Sterner.

Pe-ru-na Should Be Kept In Every Household

Where There Are Little Children.

Peruna should be kept in the house all the time. Don't wait until the child is sick, then send to a drug store. But, have Peruna on hand—accept no substitute.

Children are especially liable to acute catarrh. Indeed, most of the affections of childhood are catarrh.

All forms of sore throat, quinsy, croup hoarseness, laryngitis, etc., are but different phases of catarrh.

Mrs. Amelia Sailer, Menasha, Wis., writes:

"I have used Peruna for a number of years. It cured me of chronic catarrh which I suffered with from infancy.

"When my three children were born they all had catarrh, but I have given them Peruna and find it very effective in ridding them of this horrible trouble. I find that it is also good to give them as a tonic and a preventative of colds and colic.

"In fact, I consider it a household blessing. I would not know how to raise my children without it. I am pleased to give it my recommendation."—Amelia Sailer.

HANDLING KEROSENE.

How to Insure Against Explosions With Proper Care.

It would be an excellent thing if there were some simple and perfectly safe way by which a housekeeper could determine for herself the flash point of the kerosene she buys. Unfortunately the handling of kerosene which is hot enough to flash is a highly dangerous thing for one who is not instructed in the matter. There are some things, however, which a housekeeper may do, says Professor W. P. Bradley in Good Housekeeping.

First.—Kerosene should always be handled by daylight and away from all flames and fires. Under no circumstances whatever should a lamp be filled while its wick is lighted.

Second.—After filling a lamp both the burner and the reservoir should always be carefully wiped free from oil films.

Third.—When a lamp is not burning it is well to keep the wick a little below the top of the tube. This helps to prevent oil from working over upon the burner and reservoir.

Fourth.—Fill your lamps as often as they are used. Especially do not light a lamp when the oil is low in the reservoir.

Fifth.—Remembering that even explosive vapor cannot do harm unless in some way it actually comes in contact with a flame, never use a burner which fits loosely upon the rest of the lamp. A loose joint may leak vapor, which is likely in turn to be drawn up into the flame.

Sixth.—Never use a wick which does not fit the tube provided for it.

Seventh.—Never blow out a kerosene flame downward. Turn down the wick a little and let the flame go out of itself. If you must blow it out, blow upward through the burner or across the top of the chimney. Both of these methods produce an upward draft.

Eighth.—Always keep the kerosene can and filler in a clean, well ventilated place, where no lights ever come.

How to Banish Ants.

The only way to exterminate ants is to find the nest and destroy it, says the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune. Place some grains of coarse granulated sugar where they will be easily found by the ants, and then watch each loaded body as it scampers over the line of march to the nest. Often the watching ends at the wall, especially if the house is old, and it may be necessary to cut away a portion of the surbase before the nest can be reached. At other times the little fellows make straight for out of doors with a wisdom one can only marvel at, and then, if followed, they will be seen to enter a hole in the ground. This is the nest. When the nest is in the house saturate it thoroughly with kerosene or with boiling water, doing the work quickly, for all the little spry mites will hurry to get away from the death dealing fluid. Any portion of the wall or of the flooring that has been removed in order to reach the nest can be replaced when the work is accomplished.

How to Remove Stains.

All fruit stains when fresh yield to the hot water treatment, says the Pittsburg Press. Grass stains are a resource of worriment to mothers, and they seem almost as obstinate as a mulberry or scorches. However, a hot solution of tartaric acid, increasing its strength if it does not seem to take out the stain, or rather change it to a very light brown. This faint brown discoloration will wash out in hot soapsuds. If a housekeeper is so unfortunate as to have linen mildewed she might as well be resigned, as the antidote for this disfigurement has not been found. For a scorched place nothing is known to be better than exposure to hot sunlight for days. If ink is spilled on anything or carpet apply milk at once, sponging and washing the place continuously until all the ink is taken out. If the ink is allowed to stay it cannot be taken out with milk. In fact, prompt treatment is the most effective with all sorts of stains.

How to Rest.

To understand how to rest is of more importance than to know how to work, says the Washington Star. The latter can be learned if one will give one's mind to it, but the former is an art some people never acquire. Rest necessitates change of scene and activities. Lounging is very often tiring, sleeping is not always restful, and sitting down with nothing to do is simply to invoke weariness. A change is needed to bring into play a different set of faculties and to direct the thoughts into a new channel. The man or woman who is weary with care finds relief in active employment with freedom from responsibility. The brain worker generally finds the best rest in playing hard. It is quite a mistake always to expect to find it in idleness.

How to Renovate Black Dresses.

A whole black skirt, no matter how soiled, may be completely renovated by adding a quart of strained soap bark solution (an ounce steeped in a quart of water) to a couple of gallons of hot water. Immerse the skirt in this and work up and down, in and out, according to the manner of washing flannels, until the skirt is clean; rinse in clean tepid water, wring and shake vigorously, hang out on a line upside down and when nearly dry iron on the wrong side.

His Influence.

"Do you think a man's influence lasts after he is gone?" asked the philosopher.

"Well, I should say!" cried the young woman. "My husband tied my property up so that I can't ever marry again!"—Detroit Free Press.

Legend and Reality.

Legend tells how Napoleon, while Moscow was in flames, found time to draw up a decree organizing the Theatre Francais. Alas, the story is not true. Napoleon was in Poland when he received the decree ready to be signed. He there signed it and sent it back to Paris, but in the margin wrote the following: "To be forwarded when the army will be at Moscow. It is his majesty's intention that the decree should be dated from that town."

Obedience.

Every duty, even the least duty, involves the whole principle of obedience. And little duties make the will dutiful—that is, supple and prompt to obey. Little obediences lead into great. The daily round of duty is full of probation and of discipline. It trains the will, heart and conscience.—Woman's Life.

How to Prepare Dried Fruit.

If you will consider that dried fruit is fresh fruit with the water dried out of it and more or less dirt gathered upon its surface, two things will occur to you to do to make it become something like fresh fruit, says the New York World. First wash it thoroughly, using if necessary several changes of water, but be sure to get the fruit clean. Then put it to soak in clean water, completely covering the fruit with an inch of water above it. Soak at least twelve hours, and if the fruit does not plump out very full keep it in until it will swell no more. Don't change the water in soaking and cook in the water the fruit was soaked in. Boil gently for twenty minutes, then set on back of the stove to simmer until the fruit is done and tender, using sugar in cooking according to taste. Mixed apricots, peaches and prunes, with a few tart plums to lend spiciness, make a delicious dish.

How to Perfume a Closet.

To perfume a closet get two lengths of material the exact size and width of your closet wall, place between this material cotton batting scented with sachet powder, says the New York World. Sew the material together and tuft it with ribbon bows or simply stitch it down. Nail it to your closet wall or hang it up by tapes. This will not only perfume your clothes, but make an admirable protection against dust or the whitewash of the walls. This is a good formula for the heliotrope sachet powder, but you may not need so much as this: Iris powder, two pounds; powdered rose leaves, one pound; tonka beans (in powder), six ounces; vanilla husks, three ounces; musk (in grains), two drams; essence of almonds, five drops. Mix well and pass through a large sieve.

How to Wash Ribbons.

The washing of ribbons is not always attended by the best results. The following is a milliner's method and most successful, says the Detroit News-Tribune: Put the ribbon into a basin of warm water, rub on some good white soap and wash as you would anything else. While still wet iron on the right side with a hot iron and when dry rub between the hands as if washing it until all the stiffness is out, then iron again to remove the wrinkles. When ribbons are washed in this way it is difficult to tell them from new.

How to Cure Seasickness.

Bright red spectacles, accompanied by internal doses of calomel, form a new German specific against seasickness. It is deducted from Epstein's investigations on the influence of color on the blood vessels in the brain. Seasickness is due to lack of blood in the brain, while red sends blood to the brain with a rush. By looking at one point for some time through the red glasses the patient is rapidly cured.

How to Relieve Pain.

An easily made poultice for sharp pain in side, etc., may be made from vaseline and mustard in the proportion of two parts vaseline and one part mustard. Mix together and spread on a piece of muslin as one would spread an ordinary poultice.

Benton Was Homely.

Some years ago there sat in the house of representatives as member from Missouri a gentleman named Benton. According to the congressman who tells the story, Mr. Benton was known as "the shrewdest and homeliest man that the state possessed at that time."

In his early days at the bar Mr. Benton had, it is said, gone to Texas for the purpose of prosecuting a land claim. He lost the suit, but was so fortunate as to win an extremely handsome Texas girl, who accompanied him to his Missouri home. At St. Joseph the couple were met by a certain General Mitchell, a very plain spoken politician, to whom Mr. Benton introduced his bride. The old fellow looked very much surprised. He stared at Benton and beamed on the pretty bride. Finally, he could repress himself no longer, so he blurted out:

"Mrs. Benton, ain't there any men in Texas?"—American Spectator.

FIRST AID TO THE INJURED.

How to Save the Small Boy After the Fourth of July.

Perhaps this may seem like seeking trouble, but if mothers would act upon these hints they might save themselves many unavailing tears and regrets, for boys will burn hands and faces on the glorious Fourth of July. And lockjaw is but too apt to follow such burns. This dread malady comes not so much from the burns as from carelessly dressed wounds.

It is better not to dress a wound at all than to touch it with unsterilized hands. Do not permit a wound made by a firecracker or toy pistol to heal until you have a surgeon's word that it is safe to do so. Many a lad ties up his wounded hand himself, and it is thought little of, but so long as a bit of the wadding is left in the wound there is danger. If the germs of lockjaw are present in the blackened wadding the danger is too grave to disregard. So it is a wise precaution for mothers to obtain proper antiseptic washes and bandages. It is not always possible to find a surgeon at once, and so a wound may be made innocuous if properly dressed until a doctor can be found in case the wound is dangerous. And all toy pistols with their poisonous wadding are as deadly as bullets. More so, for a boy will go to a doctor if wounded by a ball, but he counts the wadding as nothing and dies of lockjaw.

Every mother should have a porcelain pitcher and basin handy, some safety pins, a package of absorbent cotton and one of iodoform gauze, a solution of linseed oil and limewater, a solution of boric acid, flaxseed for poultices and a surgeon's probe. The carbolic solution has one teaspoonful of carbolic acid to a pint of water. The boric solution means a teaspoonful of the acid to a glass of warm water.

Burns are the most frequent injuries. The pain is great. Girls and boys should on this day be dressed in woolen garments so far as is possible. More than half the burns are received because of the filmy nature of the dresses worn on this day. A spark sets them afire. If any one is set on fire he or she should be thrown to the ground and a shawl or rug or some other woolen article thrown about the victim. This is to protect the person from inhaling the fire. After the fire is out dress the burns at once with the solution of linseed oil and water, a little at a time, excluding the air. If the clothing sticks to the burned spot wet it with a little oil and cut it away from the wound. Cover the burned place with the solution of linseed oil and limewater and swathe it in the antiseptic gauze. If the patient suffers from the shock the body will grow cold, pulse grow feeble and eyelids close, and sometimes complete insensibility supervenes. In that case apply hot bottles around the body, rub the arms and legs and apply mustard plasters to the wrists and soles of the feet. If the patient is conscious give milk or coffee, but no liquor of any kind, and send for the family doctor at once.

When an explosion tears the palm or inside of the hand the danger is greatest and calls for drastic measures. The mother must be firm in this moment. Here she saves her boy from lockjaw. The wound must not be touched by anything but sterilized implements and fabrics. The basin is to be put over a flame and the probe in the water and allowed to boil five minutes. In the meantime the hands are to be washed in water as hot as can be borne with antiseptic soap and touching nothing that has not been sterilized. Remove the wadding with the sterilized probe, bathe the wound with the sterilized water, with carbolic in it. Use absorbent, antiseptic cotton to cleanse the wound and throw each piece aside after using, but not in the water. After the wound is cleansed of all substances wrap it in iodoform gauze and leave the rest to the surgeon. Linseed and oil would calm the pain, but as they are not entirely antiseptic it is better to wait the arrival of the physician. The prompt cleaning of the wound and the use of germicides in the solutions are far more important at this time than relief from pain.

If these simple but necessary precautions are taken the long death list of our children would be made very much smaller.

How to Renovate Chiffon.

To renovate old chiffon make a lather with good white soap and let the chiffon steep in it for some time, says the Pittsburg Press. Shake it about in the water and pass through the fingers, but do not rub it; put it into clean water and change this until it becomes quite clear; take half a cupful of water and dissolve a bit of pure gum arabic in it, then add a few drops of white vinegar; dip the chiffon into it; do not squeeze or wring, but lay it between folds of soft white muslin and pat gently with the hand; iron it with a moderately hot iron on the wrong side, placing tissue paper under the iron.

How to Prepare Iced Peaches.

Pare and quarter some ripe yellow peaches, dust them with powdered sugar and put into a self sealing glass jar, adjusting the rubber and the lid securely, says the Kansas City Star. Bury in ice and salt until thoroughly chilled, not frozen, about a half hour or longer. Serve in small sherbet glasses at the beginning of a meal as a delightfully refreshing appetizer on a hot summer day or with plain or whipped cream as a very dainty dessert.

Firmness of Purpose.

Firmness of purpose is one of the most necessary sinews of character and one of the best instruments of success. Without it genius wastes its efforts in a maze of inconsistencies.—Chesterfield.

THE BIG DAY AT LEWISTOWN

There Were Great Crowds in Attendance

MONUMENT UNVEILED

To the Soldiers' and Sailors' of Mifflin County—It Cost $15,000 Which Was Paid by the County.

GOV. PENNYPACKER NOT THERE

Lewistown, Pa., June 21.—One of the biggest public demonstrations Lewistown ever saw was occasioned Thursday by the unveiling of the Mifflin county soldiers' and sailors' monument. Early Thursday morning special trains commenced arriving bringing in hundreds of people from surrounding towns and counties. By noon such an assemblage of people had gathered that street traffic was practically blocked during the entire afternoon. The dedication ceremonies commenced at 12:30 o'clock by the formation of the parade under the direction of Grand Marshall John P. Taylor and his sides. A mammoth parade passed the reviewing stand, consisting of the staff of the Fifth regiment, battalion of the Fifth regiment companies B, G and A, of Bellefonte, Huntingdon and Lewistown; lines of veteran soldiers from all parts of Pennsylvania; military organizations; secret societies; lines of citizens; fire companies and bands in five divisions.

The exercises opened with Dr. Walter H. Parcels as chairman, introducing numerous prominent Pennsylvanias as speakers. There was an address by Adjutant General Thomas J. Stewart. The unveiling ceremony occurred precisely at 3.20 The cord dropped and the veil was drawn by a daughter of one of the old Logan guards, Miss Mary Selheimer. The days was a gala one for Mifflin county. Work of all description was discontinued for the day which was one of the greatest days the little county ever knew.

The column is constructed entire of handsome Barre granite, standing sixty feet four inches in height, crowned on the top by the heroic figure of a color bearer eleven feet in height, facing oward the south. At the base are life size figures representing the four arms of the service—cavalryman, marine, infantryman and artilleryman. The magnificent shaft is an exclusive design worked out especially by the granite firm of Moore Brothers & Brault, erected at a cost of $15,000, which is born entirely by the county. On each of the four sides the mammoth pedestal bears the inscriptions, "Dedicated 1906. Troops from this county led the advance guard of the grand union army of 2,000,000 men. They fought and died that the nation might live. Mifflin county's tribute to her soldiers and sailors, 1861 1865." Mifflin county is especially proud of her tribute to her soldier dead, for that shaft bears the significance of a war record of which she is equally proud. In response to President Lincoln's call for men J. B. Selheimer, and 110 men, calling themselves the Logan Guards, which are now better known as the First Defenders, were the first to report at Harrisburg and the first to reach Washington in response to the first call for troops.

At a personal interview with Governor Samuel Pennypacker by members of the executive monument committee several months ago he readily gave his consent to be present at the ceremonies. The committee having no notice to the contrary, his failure to comply with his promise caused disappointment.

PENNSY'S TRACKS ARE RIPPED UP.

March Stolen on Columbians Prompts Excited Citizens to Take Revenge.

Citizens of Columbia borough witnessed an exciting clash between the town authorities and the Pennsylvania Railroad company. The former were offered certain concessions for contemplated improvements on Front street, providing they made stipulated borough improvements, which were refused as unreasonable. The company stole a march by laying a track for the freight line across Locust street, finishing before the borough authorities could take action. The borough council directed Chief Burgess Beattle and the supervisor to tear up the tracks, using the fire department, if necessary.

Immediately firemen were taken in a body to the railroad. To protect the track the company moved a train back and forth, the firemen then began playng streams on the train crew.

A thousand excited citizens helped to tear up the track. By the time it was finished orders came from the officials at Harrisburg to vacate the track. At nearly the same time Sheriff Ziegler arrived with an injunction on Burgess Beattle against interfering with the railroad, but as he was among the missing it could not be served. The borough now holds the upper hand.

Decomposed Body Found.

Considerable excitement was caused in Williamsport shortly after noon Sunday by the news of the finding of the body of little Monroe Donaldson Irvin, the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Monroe Irvin, which had lain in the river for almost five months, since the lad was drowned at the dam on January 22. The body was discovered floating in the river by the crew of the Sylvan Dell steamer, Hiawtha.

When found the boy's clothing, rotted from its long presence in the water, was torn almost from the body, the shoes and underclothing, by which the lad's father was able to identify him, being the more nearly as it was when his death occurred, but the remainder of his clothing was either torn to shreds or missing altogether.

The river's rise, from 1-5 to 2-1 feet since the beginning of the rain Saturday, causing a swift current, is thought to have been the means of the release of the boy's body from some object upon which it had lodged and hung.

Anti Vaccinationists Beaten

Judge Gillan, of Chambersburg, handed down an opinion Tuesday in the case of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania ex-relation, Hampton L. Carson Attorney General, vs. the school directors of Waynesboro, the school superintendent and teachers of the Snyder Avenue school, that place.

This is the case in which anti vaccinationists of Waynesboro are involved. A writ of alternative mandamus had been granted, at the instance of the Attorney General, to the school authorities, its purpose being to bring the school authorities into court to show cause why they should not exclude Grace Stull from school because she did not have a certificate of successful vaccination.

A motion to quash the writ was made by the anti-vaccinationists. The court refuses to grant the prayer to quash the writ and discharges the rule. The defendants are required to file an answer to the alternative writ within twenty days.

"A SQUARE DEAL."

How President Roosevelt's Motto is Illustrated by Pepsikola.

C. M. Parrish says Pepsikola Tablets is the best possible illustration of what our strenuous President means by a square deal. This remarkable remedy is sold to everybody with the express agreement that if it does not do exactly as represented the buyer's money will be cheerfully refunded. They are guaranteed to quickly relieve and permanently cure all stomach troubles, tone up the whole system, give new life and vigor, better courage, more vitality, and bring the weak, weary and despondent back to joyous health.

If they do not cure you of heartburn, sour stomach, loss of appetite, dizziness, headache, lassitude, and all other unpleasant conditions arising from indigestion, all you have to do is to step into Mr. Parrish's Drug Store and he will pay your money back.

The price is only 25c if they cure. If they fail the cost is nothing. But they won't fail. Mr. Parrish will tell you that dozens of people you know have been benefitted and cured of indigestion and dyspepsia by Pepsikola Tablets, and they will give you a "square deal." No cure, no pay.

A Trite Saying.

It is a trite saying that no man is stronger than his stomach. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strengthens the stomach—puts it in shape to make pure, rich blood—helps the liver and kidneys to expel the poisons from the body and thus cures both liver and kidney troubles. If you take this natural blood purifier and tonic, you will assist your system in manufacturing each day a pint of rich, red blood, that is invigorating to the brain and nerves. The weak, nervous, run-down, debilitated condition which so many people suffer from, is usually the effect of poisons in the blood; it is often indicated by pimples or boils appearing on the skin, the face becomes thin and the feelings "blue." Dr. Pierce's "Discovery" cures all blood humors as well as being a tonic that makes one vigorous, strong and forceful. It is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes that contains neither alcohol nor harmful habit-forming drugs, and the only one, every ingredient of which has the professional endorsement of the leading medical writers of this country. Some of these endorsements are published in a little book of extracts from standard medical works and will be sent to any address free, on receipt of request therefor by letter or postal card, addressed to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. It tells just what Dr. Pierce's medicines are made of.

The "Words of Praise" for the several ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed, by leaders in all the several schools of medical practice, and recommending them for the cure of the diseases for which the "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised, should have far more weight with the sick and afflicted than any amount of the so-called "testimonials" so conspicuously flaunted before the public by those who are afraid to let the ingredients of which their medicines are composed be known. Bear in mind that the "Golden Medical Discovery" has THE BADGE OF HONESTY on every bottle wrapper, in a full list of its ingredients.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation, invigorate the liver and regulate stomach and bowels.

Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 31 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

Boy's Narrow Escape.

Harry McCullough, the young son of Mr and Mrs. Harry McCullough, of Jersey Shore, had a narrow escape from being burned to death Sunday night. Shortly after the boy and his mother retired and when Mr. McCullough entered the house a half hour later he discovered smoke issuing from the lad's bed room.

Hasting into the room Mr. McCullough found the boy's bed in flames and quickly rescued him. So narrow was the boy's escape that the fire burned part of the hair from his head. A joss stick left burning near the bed caused the fire.

CARELESSNESS OF ONE MAN

It Caused Launch to Capsize and Four Men to Lose Their Lives.

WERE ON FISHING BENT

Accident Occurred in the Delaware River in the Northern Part of Philadelphia.

NONE OF THE BODIES RECOVERED

Philadelphia, June 21.—The carelessness of one man in stepping on the side of a launch in which there was a party of six and tipping it until it capsized resulted in the drowning of four men late Wednesday afternoon in the Delaware river off the extreme northern part of the city. The other occupants of the little craft had a narrow escape from death. The drowned men are:

John Sewald.
John S. McCann.
John Hannigan.
Charles E. Keenan.

The accident broke up a day's pleasure in which more than a dozen men participated. They had gathered early in the day at the Hobo Boat club, near the scene of the accident and parties of six took turns in going out in the launch to the middle of the river to fish.

The four men above named, with Patrick Dunn and Lewis Jones, went out late in the afternoon. They had no sooner anchored than Keenan stepped on the side of the launch, capsizing it. One of the men in the boat house, whose place had been taken in the launch by Hannigan, and who was looking at the party through glasses, saw the craft turn over and quickly gave the alarm.

Two men in skiffs at once set out to the rescue, but it took them some time to reach the capsized boat, as the river at that point is quite wide. Four of the men had already sank, but Dunn was picked up while clinging to the keel of the launch and Jones was taken from the water in an exhausted condition as he was swimming ashore. The two skiffs remained in the vicinity for some time in the hope of finding the bodies of the four unfortunate men, but they did not come to the surface.

Fierce Encounter Between Turkey Hen and a Snake.

Wednesday evidence came to light of an unusual battle which took place on the farm of S. L. Ricker, in the east end of Nittany valley. The combat was between a turkey hen and a snake of the blowing viper species, and the turkey hen came out victorious.

For some time past Mrs. Ricker was aware that the turkey had a secret nest somewhere on the farm, as no eggs were found in the nest prepared for the fowl. During the past few days the turkey has been missing; and Mrs. Ricker surmised the hen was setting. With the aid of J. P. Sheets, of this city, a brother of Mrs. Ricker, who spent Wednesday on the farm, a search was made for the turkey and her hidden nest. After a while the fowl was found setting on her nest of ten eggs, completely hidden from view under a raspberry bush. Two feet from the nest was found a dead snake, nearly three feet in length. Its body from the head half way back had been all pecked into shreds, from the effects of which it no doubt died. The inference is plain that while the turkey hen was temporarily away from her nest the snake attempted to make a raid on the eggs and being caught in the act by the turkey a fierce battle took place between the guardian of her soon-to-be brood and the reptile, which must have continued for quite a while before the snake was so badly pecked that it was compelled to give up. An examination of the turkey failed to disclose any evidence that it had been bitten by the snake during the battle.—Lock Haven Democrat.

Love Me, Love My Dog.

Alas, that our neglect of proper accommodation for canine visitors should have brought upon Philadelphia the displeasure of the divine Sarah in her article on "Comparative Impressions of America," written for the June number of Appleton's Magazine. She qualifies her praise of the town with a personal note of annoyance: "Philadelphia has beautified its avenues and its favorite street has enlarged its stores, has built new hotels. But they do not love dogs in Philadelphia. And that cost me no end of trouble. It is a backward progress that the American hotel proprietor has made."

An Informal Reception.

Last Sunday morning the pastor of the Presbyterian church, Dr. J. Allison Platts announced to the congregation that he and his wife would be pleased to meet every member of the church at an informal reception Thursday evening.

It being an ideal evening for such an event, from 7:30 till 9, the parsonage was thronged with a happy company who came to pay their respects to the pastor and family. The porches were artistically decorated with a number of Japanese lanters, which beamed forth an earnest of the cordial welcome to be fulfilled within. After partaking of these delicacies the guests dispersed over the house which was thrown open having recently been re-painted and re-papered. The object of the occasion was very gratifyingly carried out in so far as the members of the church were brought together in a social way which has not been experienced for some time. The First 4th July Accident.

Friday at the Dr. S. S. Koser hospital on West Fourth street, Williamsport, the first of the usual Fourth of July victims to be reported in this section was operated upon after being seriously injured by the explosion of a giant firecracker the night before. Horribly burned about the head and upper part of the body, the patient had to undergo the operation performed by Dr. Koser in the possible hope of saving the eyesight.

The accident happened at Coudersport Thursday night, Walter, the six-year-old son of Augustus Grosse, being the victim The lad had lighted a giant firecracker, one of the kind most popularly used in the celebration of the glorious Fourth, which failed to explode. Young Grosse bent over it to see if the fuse had gone out, when it suddenly burst, sending powder and other material used in the manufacture ofthe cracker, into the lad's face and eyes and badly burning his head.

The services of a physician were at once secured, and being placed in the big White steamer of Dr. Philips, young Grosse was hurried toward Williamsport in the hope of better attention. Near Port Allegheny the speeding car broke down and the lad was forwarded to Williamsport on the Washington night express.

Dr. Koser Friday performed the delicate operation of removing the powder and other foreign particles from the optics. The right eye was most badly burned, while the left one was also seriously affected. The entire face was scorched by the exploding powder. The operation was successful so far as can be determined at present; and the sight may be saved. The boy is reported as doing nicely.

Philipsburgts Trout.

We learn that arrangements are being made through Congressman Dresser to secure a lot of three or four inch trout from the United States hatcheries for the streams in this neighborhood. It is to be hoped such an arrangement can be made, as our streams seem to be pretty well depleted, despite the fact that dozens of cans of fry are deposited each year. Stocking the streams with larger size trout will be found to be the wisest thing to do.
